

CALL FOR PAPERS

THIRD ANNUAL CONFERENCE ON ADVANCES IN FINANCIAL RESEARCH

October 4, 2019
Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco is sponsoring a conference on advances in financial research, to be held in San Francisco on Friday, October 4, 2019. The purpose of the conference is to discuss financial research, including work related to other fields such as macroeconomics, international finance, and monetary economics. The objective is to attract top economists with a preference for, but not limited to, seasoned junior researchers and assemble a program of the highest quality and interest. Both empirical and theoretical submissions are encouraged.

Those interested in presenting their research at this conference should send a PDF of their paper to SF.ER.FinanceConference@sf.frb.org by May 31, 2019. Only authors of accepted papers will be notified by June 30, 2019. Reasonable travel expenses for authors of accepted papers and for discussants will be provided. The conference program along with accepted papers will be posted online at <http://www.frbsf.org/economic-research/events/>.
